Everyday Etiquette

Knowing how to behave at school, social events and family gatherings will instill children with a sense of confidence that will benefit them for life. Numerous studies show that confident children are happier, more resilient and well adjusted than those who lack faith in their own abilities.

The Kidiquette™ course is delivered via Zoom and has a fun, informative and interactive approach. We encourage children to practice good manners and social skills in their everyday life by using role-play, games and demonstrations. From table manners and writing thank you notes to holding conversations and knowing when to put away technological devices, this course covers all the etiquette essentials for young people.

Children are never too young to learn good manners but our course starts from age six, as we believe that this is the age when they are able to reap the benefits of virtual classroom training.

See overleaf for course breakdown.

"It is a great course, with valuable and essential information that kids need to learn proper manners in order to thrive in life. I thoroughly enjoyed it as well."

ANTONINO C

"Thank you for everything you taught me. I showed off my good table manners at dinner and breakfast time."
